Profile

Harriet joined the Planning Team full-time in August 2016, following a work experience placement during her studies. She has recently completed a RTPI accredited masters degree in Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Birmingham.

Based in the Brighton office, she is soon to be a Licentiate member of the RTPI and will be working towards completing her APC in order to become a chartered Town Planner.

Project Experience

Prior to joining the team, Harriet worked in architecture, having studied this at undergraduate level. After developing in an interest in planning at an early stage, she previously spent her time balanced between architectural design and planning work, before transitioning to solely planning. Harriet has worked in a number of architectural practices, focusing on a variety of projects based in the South East. These range broadly from Listed Building Consent applications in East Sussex to gaining permission for a new build major mixed-use development in London. She has also independently received householder consent for several small-scale applications within Conservation Areas, by offering both architectural and planning services.

Planning experience includes the following:

- Feasibility studies for major residential-led schemes;
- Change of use applications;
- Advising on Permitted Development rights;
- Full planning applications for mixed-use schemes;
- Lawful Development Certificates for proposed use;
- Producing measured surveys and CAD layouts for office to residential conversion.
